1. Jim Meehan, PDT

New York, US – The World's Best Bar 2011

Topic: 'The world's favourite bar?'

Jim Meehan is a bartender, writer and entrepreneur who pioneered innovative ideas in cocktail making when the industry was still just taking off. Meehan's bar, Please Don't Tell – known around the world as PDT – was one of the first to revive the speakeasy-style space. Meehan now oversees consulting firm Mixography Inc. and is the author of award-winning titles The PDT Cocktail Book and Meehan's Bartender

In his own words:

"The staff is what makes a bar the best in the world. It's an honour and a privilege to be recognised by your role models for your work. The bartender or mixologist's most personal contribution to a cocktail is water, as a by-product of ice dilution during shaking, stirring and icing drinks, but very few people ever mention it."
